CHROMATOGRAPHY

Automated dissolution analysis by liquid chromatography. Michael W. Dong and Deborah C. Hockman. March, p. 70.
Dissolution testing of oral solid dosage forms using HPLC. Raman K. Baweja. Jan., p. 28.
Practical benefits of high-speed liquid chromatography in pharmaceutical analysis. J.R. Gant and M.W. Dong. Oct., p. 44.

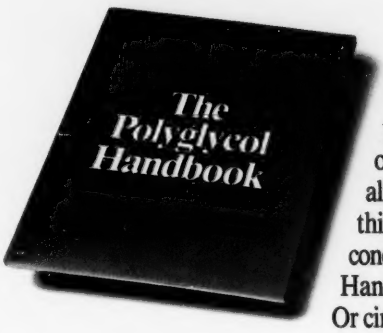
CLEAN ROOMS

Appropriate laminar-flow cabinets for pharmaceutical applications. Kenneth E. Avis. Nov., p. 28.

COATINGS

A review of aqueous coating techniques and preliminary data on release from a theophylline product. Rong-Kun Chang, Charles H. Hsiao, and Joseph R. Robinson. March, p. 56.
A thermodynamic model for aqueous film-coating. Glen C. Ebey. April, p. 40.

From hair to eternity.



Dow polyglycols perform. As everything from consistency improvers in shampoos to humectants in archaeological preservatives. And beyond. Dow's unique alkoxylation capabilities give you the freedom to create new applications with custom ethylene oxide, propylene oxide, and butylene oxide derivatives. For an almost unlimited range of product possibilities. And now, everything you've always wanted to know about polyglycols has been condensed into one invaluable technical resource. The Dow Polyglycol Handbook. And a copy is yours when you call 1-800-258-CHEM. Or circle the reader service number below.

Polyglycols

The possibilities are endless.

Circle Reader Service Card No. 30

The use of a new redispersible aqueous enteric coating material. Florence Gumowski, Eric Doelker, and Robert Gurny. Feb., p. 26.

COMPRESSION/COMPACTION

The effect on tablet crushing strength of magnesium stearate admixing in different types of lab-scale and production-scale mixers. Gerad K. Bolhuis, Sibo W. de Jong, Herman V. van Kamp, and Hans Dettmers. March, p. 36.

From bullets to pills: the mechanization of tablet manufacturing. Vernard L. Foley and Patrick F. Belcastro. Sept., p. 110.

Moisture-activated dry granulation: a general process. Ismat Ullah, Richard G. Corrao, Gary J. Wiley, and Robert A. Lipper. Sept., p. 48.

Scale-up factors in adapting a conventional granulating process to a fluid-bed granulator. Fred A. Rowley. Sept., p. 76.

Tablet tooling: user's notes on design, procurement, inspection, and maintenance. Bill Hnatuk. Dec., p. 36.

COMPUTERS (see also AUTOMATION)

Automated dissolution analysis by liquid chromatography. Michael W. Dong and Deborah C. Hockman. March, p. 70.

Computer-interfaced capacitive sensor for monitoring the granulation process II: system response to process variables. William C. Fry, Paul P. Wu, William C. Stagner, Kenneth C. Wichman, and Neil R. Anderson. Oct., p. 30.

Development standards for software used in drug production. Kevin Diggins. Sept., p. 56.

Quality assurance auditing of computer systems. Norbert R. Kuzel. Feb., p. 34.

Source code availability and vendor-user relationships. Kenneth G. Chapman, James R. Harris, Alan R. Bluhm, and J.J. Errico. Dec., p. 24.

Validation of existing computer systems. James Agalloco. Jan., p. 38.

CONTAMINATION

Appropriate laminar-flow cabinets for pharmaceutical applications. Kenneth E. Avis. Nov., p. 28.

Considerations for the quality control of biotechnology products. F.M. Bogdansky. Sept., p. 72.

Effect of USP requirements on the industrial production of parenterals. Don G. Wright. Nov., p. 38.

Issues in mammalian cell culture production. Manny Ratafia. Nov., p. 48.

CONTROLLED RELEASE (see also DRUG DELIVERY)

A review of aqueous coating techniques and preliminary data on release from a theophylline product. Rong-Kun Chang, Charles H. Hsiao, and Joseph R. Robinson. March, p. 56.

COST CONTAINMENT

"Market white water," in Washington Report. James Dickinson. May, p. 24.

Therapeutic substitution: trespassing on holy ground. James H. Sammons. May, p. 20.

DISINTEGRATION

Dissolution testing of oral solid dosage forms using HPLC. Raman K. Baweja. Jan., p. 28.

DISSOLUTION

Automated dissolution analysis by liquid chromatography. Michael W. Dong and Deborah C. Hockman. March, p. 70.

Dissolution testing of oral solid dosage forms using HPLC. Raman K. Baweja. Jan., p. 28.

DRUG DELIVERY (see also CONTROLLED RELEASE)

Coming of age: the pharmaceutical industry in 1987. Edward G. Feldman. June, p. 18.
